

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A circuit comprises a comparing means for comparing an internal voltage to a reference voltage for outputting a first driving signal, an internal voltage driving means for outputting the internal voltage in response to the first driving signal; an internal voltage detecting means for detecting the internal voltage and for generating a second driving signal in response to an active signal, and an overdriving control means for controlling the first driving signal in response to the second driving signal.